International Journal of Herbal Medicine (IJHM): A New Open-Access International Journal

It is with pleasure that we introduce the first issue of online journal “International Journal of Herbal Medicine (IJHM)” a bimonthly publication of AkiNik Publications. The Journal is peer-reviewed, broad-spectrum and committed to the promotion of research and dissemination of knowledge in Phytochemistry, Pharmacognosy, Essential oil chemistry, Natural product chemistry, Botany, Biochemistry, Biotechnology, Marine research and related multidiscipline. IJHM also provides an advanced international forum for the development of technology of pharmaceutical sciences.

IJHM will provide an interactive source between industry and academic scientists involved in the field of Natural Plants Chemistry and enhance collaborative efforts. IJHM will provide an ideal platform for all researchers involved in the field of Natural plants Chemistry and related areas to utilize IJHM for their research purpose. Moreover, they will be encouraged for submitting their latest research finding and review topics in the form of written manuscripts in IJHM.

To help us achieve our aim, we have an excellent Editorial Board to advise us of all the exciting current and future trends in the area of Plants Chemistry. We very much look forward to your support in the form of a submission of a manuscript of original research going on in the many laboratories, which is essential for the success of this progressive venture.

I take this opportunity to warmly welcome all scientists’ academics to submit their path breaking research work for publication in IJHM.
